M: Hello, Bronx High School students. This is your vice principal, Jeremy Wilson. As you know, our mid-term exam will start next Tuesday. I'd like to announce that you should not carry any electronic devices while taking the exam including smart watches or wireless earphones. If you're found with an electronic device, even if it's in your bag, it'll be regarded as cheating. This will result in a penalty that affects your test score. So please make sure that you don't have any electronic devices with you during the exam. I wish you all good luck.

대화를 듣고, 여자의 의견으로 가장 적절한 것을 고르시오.

W: Brandon, what are you so focused on?

M: Hi, Chloe! I'm looking at pictures of my kids to post on social media.

W: For real? Posting their pictures on social media?

M: Yes. I'm just sharing our joyful moments online.

W: I understand, but when posting your kids' photos online, you should be aware of the risks.

M: Risks? What do you mean by that?

W: You know, the photos you post could be seen by anyone.

M: Is it a big problem?

W: Of course. The photos could potentially be used for criminal purposes.

M: Oh, no. I've never thought of that.

W: That's why you should be mindful of the risks when sharing your children's photos online.

M: Thanks for your advice. I'll be careful.

다음을 듣고, 여자가 하는 말의 요지로 가장 적절한 것을 고르시오.

W: Hello, students. I'm Megan, a public speaking instructor. Imagine you're sitting in an audience at a presentation. And the speaker begins with a boring introduction. Quickly, you would lose interest. So, for a successful presentation, it's important to start with an interesting opening. An engaging opening captures attention and creates interest. It also serves as a hook and makes the audience eager to hear more. For example, a challenging question or a surprising statistic can be used. Once again, remember that an attractive beginning is the key to a good presentation. Keep it in mind. Thank you.

W: I also like the star-patterned tunnel.

M: Me, too. Dogs can have fun running through it. Oh, can you guess what that bone-shaped thing is?

W: Sure. It must be a doggy pool. By the way, where can our dogs eat?

M: Look under the tree!

W: Aha! There are three food dispensers. Dogs can easily get their food.

M: Right. How do you feel about this center?
